

TWO MEXICAN BATTALIONS ACROSS THE RIO GRANDE

Continued Firing From Other Side of Border Makes it Dangerous for Texans to Venture Near River, Attending to Their Duties—Carranza Soldiers Believed Take Part.

ALL TROOPS ARE HELD IN READINESS

Will be No Pursuit Into Mexico of Small Bands, But If General Action is Taken, as is Feared, Invaders Will be Chased Until All of Them Are Captured, is Statement.

Brownsville, Sept. 5.—Two Mexican battalions were shot today by American soldiers returning the bandits' fire across the Rio Grande at Cavazos crossing, about 50 miles above here. At the same time the gravity of the situation was somewhat relieved by the active co-operation of Carranza military authorities, who removed Carranza troops from the river bank at Cavazos crossing and promised to try to keep their men away from the river.

Major Hay, chief of staff for Major General Frederick Funston, arrived today from San Antonio and was followed by several troop trains, the beginning of a troop movement which will put the weight of 4000 regulars in the lower Rio Grande valley to help maintain peace.

One Carranza officer, and one civilian known in Matamoros, Mexico, as a Carranza supporter, were killed in yesterday's fighting at Carranzas crossing between Mexicans and American soldiers and Texas rangers. Proof of the deaths of these two men was brought here today from Matamoros. Captain Frank R. McCoy of the Third U. S. cavalry, in command of the troops at the crossing, reported that also that there probably were other casualties among Mexicans yesterday. Besides these casualties, there were at least a dozen Mexicans seen to fall during the fighting.

The total American casualties in this fight yesterday and in today's shooting were one man slightly wounded and one horse injured.

Asks to Get Body.

American Consul J. H. Johnson at Matamoros came here today on behalf of General E. P. Nafarrate, commanding Carranza troops there, to secure permission for his men to recover the body of a Carranza soldier lying on the river bank near Reynosa, about 50 miles up the river from here. This soldier, a Carranza cavalryman, Nafarrate told Johnson, went to the river to water his horse, whereupon persons on the American side shot him. His comrades said they did not know whether this soldier was dead and that they feared to approach his body because they might themselves be fired upon.

Colonel Robert L. Bullard, commanding U. S. troops here, sent instructions to the troops at Hidalgo, Texas, opposite Reynosa, to see that Mexicans were not harmed when they went after the body.

One serious menace to international relations as authorities here view the situation, is in continual firing across the Rio Grande by Mexicans at Americans who may appear on the Texas side of the river, as in the scene just above Brownsville yesterday, extending about 75 miles up the river. Officers believe that this reckless rifle firing cannot continue indefinitely without causing reprisals which will tempt irresponsible Mexicans to try an actual military invasion of American soil. Americans appear on or near the river bank to look after their property are subject to risk. To minimize the peril American soldiers have strict orders to never fire across the river unless fired upon, and they have observed this rule usually to the extent of impeding their own lives.

Sunday's Fight Brief.

Today's fight at Cavazos crossing was brief. Captain McCoy last night withdrew his men from the river front at this crossing. Early this morning he sent an observation party to the river banks. They saw organized Mexican troops at the Mexican side of the crossing who preserved military order. The Americans heard bugle calls to the river bank. This was reported to Colonel Bullard, who notified Jose Z. Garza, Carranza consul in Brownsville. Garza in turn notified General Nafarrate, who sent word that he would not order these troops away from the Mexican shore. General Nafarrate said that if there should be any firing at Cavazos crossing it would not come from his troops. In four or five hours Captain McCoy reported that Carranza soldiers had disappeared from the crossing. After these troops left, Captain McCoy's observation party saw about a dozen Mexicans whom they took to be bandits or irregulars appear at the crossing. The American observation detail kept out of sight in order to avoid causing trouble. They recognized these Mexicans as apparently part of a Carranza command on Thursday chased across the river after they had looted several stores near Mission, Texas. The bandits were wearing new broad-brimmed felt hats of expensive American make and new shoes, such as stolen from these stores. One of McCoy's observation party in a tree on the river bank made a slight movement which attracted the attention of the Mexicans, one of whom shot at the soldier. The American observation party thereupon opened fire, which, according to the official report, "knocked two Mexicans over." The other Mexicans escaped from the river bank.

American authorities are without reliable information as to the reasons for the presence at yesterday's crossing of the Carranza troops. A Carranza civilian among the dead, American officers and Texas officials reported the presence of Carranza men at the crossing late yesterday, but this was after the fighting was practically over. The fourth infantry arrived today from Galveston and the 26th infantry under Colonel Bullard moved from Brownsville to Brownsville, 25 miles north of Brownsville, where the troops will be at a railroad junction within quick reach of all the disturbed areas. Col. A. P. Blockson of the Third cavalry, in command at Fort Brown, reported that Carranza troops were ordered to leave the river this morning.

Troops Held in Readiness.

Washington, Sept. 5.—All United States troops on the Mexican border were under orders to be in readiness to meet any emergency. War department officials said extraordinary vigilance had been ordered as a result of repeated raids in American territory by Mexican brigades and soldiers and renewed reports of preparation for an organized invasion from across the Rio Grande in the states of Coahuila and Nuevo Leon.

Colonel Bullard said that last night's order calling all troops into quarters was issued to have a force quickly available to send to points along the border near Brownsville which had reported that Carranza troops were cutting wires and that railroad bridges were threatened with damage. The night passed without any incident which necessitated sending the troops from Fort Brown.

Persistent reports that some of the Mexican soldiers who were seen in uniform of the Carranza army and had as high as 300 rounds of ammunition have come, too, that there is a concerted move on the part of Carranza leaders in Nuevo Leon and Coahuila to organize a general invasion of the United States and the Pan-American movement for re-establishment of consular relations.

These reports resulted tonight in the issuance of a statement by Eliso Arredondo, Carranza's confidential assistant, denying all such stories, crediting them to the enemies of Carranza.

The statement added that he invited the press to withhold any opinion on the situation for a few days when he feels that he would be going on duty. The statement will have satisfied itself as to the source of the present border disturbances. He also said that it is untrue that Carranza's army has been ordered to move into the United States. Carranza's commander at Matamoros has ten thousand men along the border; he has about 100,000 men in the interior.

Eugene Gilbert, Daring Aviator, Again Interned in Switzerland

Eugene Gilbert, French aviator, again is interned in Switzerland, having been returned to that country by France. Some time ago Gilbert alighted on Swiss soil in his aeroplane and was interned there until the end of the war. One day Gilbert wrote to the Swiss authorities advising them of the fact that he was going to escape. Three hours after dispatching the letter he started for the Swiss-France border and succeeded in crossing it. Switzerland protested to France that this was a violation of her neutrality, and so it happens that Gilbert is again forced to view the scenery of Switzerland.

BALEFOUR WRITES A LETTER DISCUSSING THE GERMAN NAVY

London, Sept. 5.—Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the admiralty, contributes a letter to the British press which after discussing the German naval policy, declares it an attempt at world domination, says:

"German statesmen calculated that a powerful fleet even if it was numerically inferior to that of Great Britain would nevertheless render the latter impotent since no British government would dare risk a conflict, which, however successful, might leave them in the end with naval forces inferior to those of some third power.

"So far neither the designs of the German government nor those of the German navy league have met with any measure of success. The British fleet has become relatively stronger than it was thirteen months ago and there is no reason to suppose during the future course of the war this process is likely to be arrested. It is indeed plain that after six months of hostilities Admiral von Tirpitz and the German navy have suffered, and the result is that he serves at the same conclusion. They saw that the old policy had broken down and that the new must be devised; submarines they thought might succeed where dreadnoughts had failed.

"We may safely assume that nothing but hope of a decisive success would have influenced the German ministers to inflict this new strain on the honor of their country. Yet decisive success has not been attained and does not seem to be in sight.

"I claim no gifts of prophecy. I make no boast of the future. But of the past I can speak with confidence and it interests you to know that while the losses inflicted upon the German submarines have been formidable, British mercantile tonnage is at this moment greater than when the war began.

"It is true that by this method of warfare many innocent persons, women and children as well as men, neutrals as well as belligerents, have been robbed of their lives. But it is not only the innocent who have suffered; the criminals also have paid a heavy toll. Some have been rescued and are prisoners of war; but from the very nature of submarines it must often happen that they drag their crews with them to destruction and those who send them forth on their unhonored mission wait for their return in vain.

"Herein lies the explanation of the amazing change which has come over the diplomatic attitude of Germany toward the United States. Men ask themselves why the sinking of the Lusitania with a loss of over 1100 men, women and children was welcomed throughout Germany with enthusiasm and triumph, while the sinking of the Arabic was accepted in melancholy silence.

"It is because in the intervening months the United States has become stronger and Germany weaker. Is it because the attitude of the president has varied? Is it because the arguments of the secretary of state have become more persuasive? Is it because German opinion has at last revolted against lawless cruelty?

TEUTON OFFENSIVE SEEMS TO HAVE LOST ITS DRIVING POWER

London, Sept. 5.—Either the driving power of the Austro-German offensive against Russia is nearly exhausted or the German generals have decided that the army will settle where it is through the winter months.

"German statesmen calculated that a powerful fleet even if it was numerically inferior to that of Great Britain would nevertheless render the latter impotent since no British government would dare risk a conflict, which, however successful, might leave them in the end with naval forces inferior to those of some third power.

AMBASSADOR CLAIMS THE RIGHT TO CALL STRIKES IN THE U. S.

Lenox, Mass., Sept. 5.—The right to call a strike of Austro-Hungarian workers in the big steel mills of the country engaged in filling war orders was claimed by Dr. Constantin Theodor Dumba, ambassador from Austria-Hungary to the United States, in a statement issued tonight at the summer embassy here. Dr. Dumba said he intended to leave tomorrow for Washington to explain his position to Secretary of State Lansing.

This statement was called forth by dispatches from London published in the New York World yesterday making public excerpts from letters and memoranda forwarded by Dr. Dumba to Foreign Minister Burian of Austria-Hungary, which were seized by the British naval authorities from J. F. Archibald, an American newspaper correspondent who was apprehended at Falmouth the latter part of August.

Dr. Dumba declared that there was nothing in the dispatches from him to his government, captured by the British naval authorities, that could not be properly explained. In regard to one part of the published statement in which it was said typewritten memoranda prepared by Dr. Dumba contained detailed information as to how the big steel mills at Bethlehem, Pa., and elsewhere could be put out of commission, the ambassador said:

"There are thousands of citizens of Austria-Hungary working in the big steel mills at Bethlehem, Pa., and elsewhere. They are engaged in making munitions of war for the enemies of their country. This constitutes a crime against their country which is punishable by imprisonment and penal servitude should they ever return to their native land. Many of them are ignorant and do not know that they are doing wrong. It is my position to point out to them that they are committing a crime and to do all in my power to keep them from doing so. It is part of an ambassador's duties to keep his countrymen out of trouble wherever he may be stationed.

"It is difficult to get at these laborers, owing to the conditions under which they work and because of the fact that so many are uneducated. I have subsidized many newspapers printed in the several languages of the Austria-Hungarian races and through their columns have told the citizens of the government I represent what their duty is. But I can reach only a minority in that manner. The only way is to inaugurate a peaceful walk-out in the big steel mills where all Austro-Hungarian citizens may be present en masse.

"It was therefore my duty to make known these facts to my government. There has been no conspiracy at all about it. I shall leave for Washington tomorrow and call upon Secretary Lansing. I shall give him the complete copies of the correspondence which I have before my departure. I am sure that he will be able to form a just opinion, are laid before him."

ALLAN LINE HESPERIAN IS ATTACKED WITHOUT WARNING

Vessel With 300 of Crew and 350 Passengers Torpedoed by German Submarine Off Irish Coast Just at Dark Saturday—No Lives Lost. Ship Remains Afloat.

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS ARE SURPRISED

Inconceivable That Imperial Government Will Tolerate Acts Directly in Violation of Their Recent Promise to United States—Liner Had Small Rifle Mounted on Stern, Which is Considered Allowable.

London, Sept. 5.—The Allan Line steamer Hesperian with 350 passengers and a crew of 300 aboard, bound from Liverpool for Montreal was attacked without warning by a German submarine off the Irish coast just as darkness was falling Saturday evening. Although the torpedo found its mark the vessel remained afloat and according to a statement issued by the company tonight, every soul aboard was saved.

No submarine was seen and probably it was too dark to observe the wake of a torpedo, but all the passengers and members of the crew who arrived at Queenstown in the rescue steamer today agreed that the attack was made by a German undersea boat basing their opinion on the force of the shock and the great volume of water thrown into the air. This dropped back on the deck, drenching the passengers who were taking an after dinner promenade, feeling quite safe in the belief that they had passed through the submarine danger zone.

About thirty Canadian soldiers who had been wounded in battle in Flanders were going home to recuperate. Most of the other passengers were Canadians returning from a visit to England. English people on their way to Canada to settle.

The torpedo struck the Hesperian in the forward engine room and the ship immediately began to settle by the head. Captain Main ordered the passengers and crew into the boats but with his officers remained on the bridge, although at that time he must have felt sure that his ship would go down.

The discipline was perfect, but one of the boats, the falls of which became jammed, capsized and those in it were thrown into the water. In the darkness confusion naturally prevailed but all were picked up and with other passengers and the crew were transferred to the rescue steamers which arrived in answer to wireless calls for assistance. The Hesperian was about 150 miles to the westward when struck.

The torpedo struck the Hesperian forward in the engine room, tearing away the forward part so that water rushed into the forward compartments. The wireless operator instantly sent out a call for aid, while Captain Main ordered the boats to be lowered. Three of them are said to have been upset in launching and twenty persons who were injured have been landed at Queenstown.

A few of the passengers soon reached the scene and the persons in the small boats were taken aboard. When it was seen the Hesperian was likely to remain afloat for sometime, Captain Main, in regard to one of the most reliable commanders in the Allan service, insisted upon returning to his ship to await the arrival of admiralty tugs, which he hoped would be able to make her safe to Queenstown. Twenty of his men went back with him.

Washington Surprised.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Official Washington received news of the torpedoing of the Allan line steamer Hesperian, with a loss of probably eight or ten lives, said the liner carried mounted and visible on her stern a 4.7-inch rifle.

The news was withheld at both the white house and the state department pending detailed reports on the attack. It was learned that high officials regarded as inconceivable that the German government had given the German submarine commander had without warning launched a torpedo at a peaceful passenger vessel.

President Wilson and Secretary Lansing heard of the incident first early today through Associated Press dispatches. Later, cable reports from Ambassador Page at London and Consul Frost at Queenstown announced the torpedoing of the Hesperian with a loss of about eight lives, none of them Americans. Several Americans were said to have been among the surviving passengers.

The report as made public by the state department made no mention of whether the vessel was armed or attempted to escape, but it is known that other advice indicated that while the British admiralty believed there had been no warnings it would not announce it as a fact.

Some significance was attached to the fact that the Hesperian was a Canadian ship, particularly when they reported that the vessel was attacked on her stern a 4.7 inch rifle.

While international law permits merchantmen to have guns for defensive purposes, particularly when they are of small calibre and mounted aft, it was pointed out that if the Allan line acted at all suspiciously after being approached the presence of this gun probably would figure prominently in the submarine commander's explanation of the torpedoing.

The president went for a long automobile ride this afternoon after reading the press dispatches. He might be studied the brief official reports, remaining in his study all evening and seeing no callers. Both he and Secretary Lansing took the position that there could be no comment until all details of the attack were known.

No one was in Washington to speak with authority for either the German or Austro-Hungarian government. Officials of the American government appeared confident there would be some satisfactory explanation of the Hesperian case in spite of the statements of her passengers that she was torpedoed without warning. It was suggested in some quarters that perhaps the ship struck a floating mine and in others that she must have attempted to escape after being spoken to by a submarine.

It was pointed out that the question raised in connection with the use of the word "liner" in Count von Bernstorff's letter could have no application in this instance as the Hesperian is a passenger carrying liner as the term is commonly used.

Wonder What U. S. Will Do.

London, Sept. 5, 5:15 p. m.—London learned of the torpedoing of the Hesperian through a Sunday newspaper which issued an extra edition at 5 o'clock this afternoon, containing the meager details sent by the news agencies from Queenstown.

Appendix to the details was the statement credited to the Allan line at Liverpool to the effect that all the passengers and crew had been saved. The news aroused no excitement comparable with the loss by torpedoing of the Lusitania and Arabic.

It was noticeable that wherever groups of people assembled to discuss the matter, principal interest among them centered in the probable effect of the torpedoing of the liner would have on the negotiations between the United States and Germany concerning Germany's submarine policy.

A request at the Allan line offices for the names of the passengers on the Hesperian met with an absolute refusal to give them. It was stated that the company's officials had decided to issue no list at the present time.

Thought Were Out of Danger.

Queenstown, Sept. 5, 5:05 p. m.—Ronald Whiteway of London, who with his wife was a passenger on the Hesperian, said:

"We were sitting on the upper deck, the weather being delightful, when about 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening we felt a violent impact which almost knocked us out of our chairs.

"In less time than I can tell it a huge volume of water rose almost as high as the masts, and breaking, drenched us to the skin. We had thought we were out of the danger zone and were discussing the possibility of a pleasant voyage.

"The life boats were quickly lowered and rowed away from the steamship, on which the captain and officers and some of the crew remained. The steamer apparently was struck on the starboard side, but as it was nearly dark, the exact position could not be seen. After the explosion the Hesperian settled down by the head. Rescue steamers were soon on the scene and took the passengers on board."

Vessel Carried Gun.

Washington, Sept. 5.—A cablegram from American Consul Frost at Queenstown to the state department tonight announcing the torpedoing of the Allan line steamer Hesperian, with a loss of probably eight or ten lives, said the liner carried mounted and visible on her stern a 4.7-inch rifle.

The news was withheld at both the white house and the state department pending detailed reports on the attack. It was learned that high officials regarded as inconceivable that the German government had given the German submarine commander had without warning launched a torpedo at a peaceful passenger vessel.

President Wilson and Secretary Lansing heard of the incident first early today through Associated Press dispatches. Later, cable reports from Ambassador Page at London and Consul Frost at Queenstown announced the torpedoing of the Hesperian with a loss of about eight lives, none of them Americans. Several Americans were said to have been among the surviving passengers.

Rescue Boats at Queenstown.

Queenstown, Sept. 5.—Rescue boats with passengers and members of the crew of the Allan line steamer Hesperian arrived at Queenstown this afternoon by a German submarine off the south coast of Ireland.

The passengers were unanimous in declaring that the Hesperian was attacked in the early night without warning.

The only person aboard the steamer who actually saw the underwater boat was a man on watch who got a glimpse of it in the distance and reported the fact to Captain Main.

The passengers declared that the steamer was down by the head when they last saw her, but that she was making a slow and steady climb toward the surface.

Had 350 Passengers.

Liverpool, Sept. 5.—A statement issued at the offices of the Allan line says:

"The Hesperian has on board 350 passengers and a crew of 300. Of the passengers thirty were first class and 117 second class.

"All the passengers were taken off and landed at Queenstown while part of the crew remained on board the liner which is being towed to Queenstown."

SUMMARY OF WAR

The Canadian steamer Hesperian of the Allan line, while bound from Liverpool for Montreal with 350 passengers and crew aboard was torpedoed Saturday evening about 100 miles southwest of Fastnet. No lives were lost so far as is actually known, but about twenty persons were injured. The Hesperian remained afloat and is on her way to Queenstown.

Accounts of the occurrence differ, for while the steamship company report all saved the American consul at Queenstown reported that the vessel sustained a loss of life was about eight. He also conveyed the information that the Hesperian had a 4.7 inch rifle mounted and visible on the stern. Allan line officials at Montreal declared that the ship carried no gun, to their knowledge.

Other incidents of the war on the sea include the sinking by torpedoes or mines of the Danish steamer Frode and the Norwegian bark Glimt, the seizure of a Greek vessel in the Adriatic sea by Austrian torpedo boat destroyers and the capture by the Russians of two Turkish food ships in the Black Sea.

On all the fronts heaving fighting is in progress. The Germans and Austrians report further victories for their troops along the eastern line; Paris tells of the silencing of the German batteries at several points in the artillery duels that have been going on days.

The Italians claim further advances against the Austrians; the Turks assert that they have gained minor victories on the Gallipoli peninsula, but in return have been bombarded from land and sea by the allies under Seddik Bahr.

Arthur J. Balfour, in a long letter to the British press after reviewing the German losses in the past week, credits the losses inflicted upon German submarines have been formidable, British mercantile tonnage is at this moment greater than when the war began.

A correspondent who has visited the grand fleet of Great Britain and the great naval bases during the past week, describes the preparedness of the British warships for any struggle with the German fleet and quotes the officers as having confidence that with very much the British fleet has grown stronger and is better organized to meet any emergency.

On the political side of the war the Greek parliament adjourned until October 28 without Premier Venizelos having announced what stand Greece will take with regard to the war.

Charles A. Boynton, Newspaper Man, Dies at Washington

Washington, Sept. 5.—Charles A. Boynton, one of the veterans of the Associated Press, and one of the best known American newspaper men for the last twenty-five years, died here early today at his home, aged 79. He had not been in active service since 1909, but until recently had been in fair health. A few weeks ago he was taken ill and failed steadily until the end came. He will be buried here Tuesday.

Interurbans Collide.

Sandusky, Ohio, Sept. 5.—From forty to fifty persons were injured today when two interurban trains collided on the Lake Shore electric road. An east bound limited crashed into a west bound local at Sage's siding, near Huron. There were no fatalities.

Paris reports that the Turks have delivered an unsuccessful night attack against the British positions near the Anzac regions but beyond that no news has been received of the operations of the Near East.

There has been a renewal of the reports from Athens of dissensions between the Turks and Germans at Constantinople and of depression among the Turks as the result of the Turkish troops who are reported to be fighting with all their old stubbornness.

Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the British admiralty, in a letter to the press, gives official recognition to the fact that so many are uneducated. I have subsidized many newspapers printed in the several languages of the Austria-Hungarian races and through their columns have told the citizens of the government I represent what their duty is. But I can reach only a minority in that manner. The only way is to inaugurate a peaceful walk-out in the big steel mills where all Austro-Hungarian citizens may be present en masse.

ARMY AVIATOR FALLS.

Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 5.—One of the army aviators, who fell about 150 feet just before sunset tonight at the aviation field here. Flight Lieutenant Joseph C. Morrow of Pittsburg was stunned and badly bruised. Private Adam Khukerky, who was making a flight with him, was badly bruised. Both were expected to recover. The machine was completely wrecked.

"TIZ" FOR TIRED SORE, ACHING FEET

Ah! what relief. No more tired feet; no more burning feet, swollen, bad smelling, sweaty feet. No more pain in corns, callouses or bunions. No matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use "TIZ". "TIZ" draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet; "TIZ" is magical; "TIZ" is grand; "TIZ" will cure your foot trouble. You'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight and your feet will never, never hurt or get sore, swollen or tired. Get a 25 cent box at any drug or department store, and get relief.

LABOR DAY SERMON BY REV. CARRAWAY

WORKINGMEN URGED NOT TO PUT "WAGES EARNED IN BAG WITH HOLES."

HAGGAI AND ISRAELITES

Hard Times Ascribed Largely to Increased Amount Spent for Pleasures.

"The Wage-Earner and His Wages" was the subject taken for his sermon yesterday by Rev. A. E. Carraway, pastor of the Elm Street Methodist church. As his text he read Hagai 1-6. "He that earneth wages, earneth wages to put it into a bag with holes," he said in part:

"The people who attend this church are largely interested in 'The Wage-Earner and His Wages,' hence the subject of the hour. Tomorrow is Labor Day when thousands of workmen in our large cities will in some way observe the day in honor of their struggles for the betterment of their condition as men and workmen. There is a vast army of them and they are largely the bone and sinew of our country, and every encouragement should be given them in any worthy method of uplifting themselves and their families. This I am sure that all right thinking and doing men and women stand ready and willing to do.

"The God who said 'Six days shalt thou work' will most certainly approve of any and every right effort they who are trying to comply with his request shall put forth in order to become better men and women. He indeed will be a 'fellow laborer with you' in this work if you will only let him, and it is to this end I come to you fellow workmen with the message of this hour, and I trust you will give me a faithful hearing and will in the end help me to help you.

"Being one of you a fellow laborer I crave your kindly attention and thoughtful co-operation in this hour's service.

"The text of the hour was spoken by one Haggai, a prophet who lived at the time of the rebuilding of Solomon's temple under Zerubbabel. This began under such favorable circumstances that within a few years a rapid completion had come to a perfect standstill, and so it had been for some twelve or fifteen years when this prophet appeared on the scene with the stirring appeal in which the words of my text occur.

Haggai and Israelites.

"He charged this people with being derelict in their duty in that they were working and toiling for their own homes and houses while God's house lay in waste. He said 'Consider your ways and see if it be not time that you who live in your coiled house should consider that God's house is in waste. They heeded their attention to the fact that with all their efforts they were not prospering as they might and ought. Their crops were a failure as were their cattle and he said 'go out in the world and he said even you who are 'Wage earners, earn wages and put it into a bag with holes.'

"Now my fellow workman I desire to say that while this is the only grievance of the workingman of today yet you must see that it is one of the great hindrances today is the fact that you also earn wages to put them into a bag with holes. 'Thousands of men have in the past few months have been without a job from which they could get any wages at all and others have been compelled to work for wages that are beneath their needs and desires, but this would not have been so bad had it not been true that for months and years many of them had been doing just what my text says, you had earned wages and you had put them into a bag with holes. I do not say that laborers are the only people who do this but I am preaching to you now and if I am preaching to the cause, you to pause and do the right thing in this matter I will have helped you some.

Haggai, the prophet, charges that this fact in his day was due to the forgetfulness of God and his house and may it not be true that such is the case in our day.

Is God Being Honored?

"Are our workmen honoring God just as they should and ought? Alas is not true that there is today enemies and thus they are allowing a chasm be dug between them and God's house? Is it not true that the church depends largely upon the struggling masses for support is having a great struggle to live because the people among whom it is located have ceased to love and honor it as they should because perchance they are unable to meet the expense of its upkeep? Is it not true that many of you are expecting and waiting for men of means to run the affairs and you yourselves are neglecting it in the places where it is greatly needed? Had you thought that perhaps herein lies the reason for the shortness of wages and the failure of what you do get to meet the necessities of life?

"But be that as it may it is true that one of the weak places in our workmen's uplift is that the wages we get are put into a bag that has holes. Our wages do not do us the good they ought.

"Hundreds of homes are facing hardships this winter because you have spent the small wages you did get for that which did not benefit you one particle.

Some Ways of Waste.
"May I not mention some of the ways in which we demonstrate the truth of this statement of the prophet?

"First let me mention our expenditures for the sole purpose of keeping up with the friend just in front of us, or our neighbor next door. This is seen in the man with the auto who really is not able to own it but some one else did and so he must.

"It is seen in the dress of our girls and boys who must keep up with the one just in front of them.

"Strange as it may sound this matter of dress works against attendance upon church more quickly than elsewhere. Men use the needs of dressing well in order to attend the house of God as an argument for clothing that they are unable to purchase.

"Then our insatiable desire for pleasure and fun of the day. In order to gratify it we have stolen God's

WOMEN VOTERS OF NATION TO HOLD BIG CONVENTION

MRS. O. H. P. BELMONT. FRANCIS J. HENEY

The political complexion of the Sixty-fourth congress will be analyzed and discussed by the suffragists attending the convention of women voters in San Francisco on September 14, which is expected to continue for three days. About 300 women are expected to participate. The speakers at the public mass meeting, to be held in Scottish Rite auditorium, will include Francis J. Heney, Miss Alice Paul, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, J. Stitt Wilson and Mrs. Chas. Farwell Edson.

day and the argument is made that the workman must have his day of recreation and so to the parks we go and spend money, our wages, for that which gives us only a passing pleasure, which is as if we put them into a bag with holes. The fact that our women of today must go out into the busy world in order to make money is not due to the shortness of wages in our day but to the increased demand for dress and other things that bring pleasure and enjoyment. I happen to know of a certain woman high up in life who took a place in a department store in order to give a pretty daughter the fine dressing she wanted to attend the entertainments that her silly heart craved but could not get on her father's wages, and this led to final striving to satisfy a growing vanity of the mother's heart. The father in this case was a man whose salary was insufficient to meet his family needs, and he was inflated with the love of self and pleasure.

"Then by the thousands our noble workmen are putting their wages into the till of the open saloon to satisfy their appetite for drink and an hour's social enjoyment. 'The saloon is the workingman's open bag with holes in it. Of how many thousands upon thousands of good hard earned money of good efficient honest workmen have been dropped into this open bag only to drop out into the hands of the saloon and the poor fellow derive no benefit thereby.

"God as a Partner.
"Oh, my fellow workmen, let me exhort you with all my heart that while you are in an organized way doing your utmost to get your wages increased to a living amount that you try along with it the proper care of the amounts now received and see that they are put into bags that have holes therein.

"The old prophet Haggai said that this day was due to their failure to honor God in the upkeep of his house.
"May it not be true now? Why should God so love and care for house then and now? And may it not be true that the prophet was merely stating a fact that was but the natural outcome of such conduct upon the part of the people?

"Most assuredly this is true, hence let me beg to about face in your life and first of all get right with God. Live right with God and then your wages you have thought small will undoubtedly go further and be of more benefit to you and yours than if you continue to drop them into a bag with holes.

"These suggestions are such that they can be put into use at once by each one of us and the effect will be immediate and lasting both on our pocketbooks and character. Let our motto be the right use of our time and money in the service of the living God, and he will most assuredly care for us."

Some Cooling Drinks for Hot Weather to Be Made at Home
That the subject of keeping cool drinks in the home, especially where there are young people, is an important one, is demonstrated in the increasing boom of the soda fountain business. Isn't it natural that a person coming home after a hot, tiresome day in town, or a strenuous day at golf or tennis, and finding no refreshing beverage, should go elsewhere and drink some unwholesome, if not injurious, preparation? No doubt many a young man has become a tippler for no other reason than a lack of wholesome drinks in his home.

Iced tea is an easily prepared and always delicious beverage. To hot tea, freshly made, add sugar and allow it cool. When ready to serve add chopped ice, lemon and a spray of mint leaves.

Plain Lemonade.
To the juice of a dozen lemons add sugar made by boiling four cupfuls of sugar and a quart of water. Add water to taste and serve with chopped ice. This recipe may be varied by the addition of a tumblerful of grape juice, chopped pineapple, cherries, strawberries, raspberries, sliced oranges, etc.

Fruit Punch.
A delicious fruit punch is made with the juice of three grapefruit, 12 oranges, juice from a can of pineapple, or juice and pulp from one fresh pineapple which has stood in sugar chopped fine. Cherries, strawberries, if desired, and sugar to taste. No hard-boiled eggs are needed. These ingredients fill a punchbowl.

It is a good plan to keep a jar of Horlick's malted milk on hand, as it is nourishing and palatable and may be used in the making of many delicious drinks.

Malted Milk Egg Drink.
Make solution of three ounces malted milk and water, and two tablespoonfuls of fresh fruit juice. Fold into stiffly-beaten white of an egg and sweeten.

Malted Milk Coffee.
To one-half glass freshly-made coffee add cream, sugar and allow to cool. Add three teaspoonfuls malted milk. Shake well and fold into the white of an egg.

Grape Punch.
For a dainty, unfermented punch take the juice of three lemons, juice of one orange, one pint grape juice, one quart of water, one cup sugar.

Effervescent Malted Milk.
Put some finely cracked ice into a glass. Fill it half full of Apollinaris, Vichy or Siphon water, and immediately add the desired amount of malted milk in solution. Drink while effervescent. Vanilla, chocolate syrup or beaten egg may be added if desired.

Iced Chocolate.
Dissolve cocoa or chocolate in boiling water with sugar. When cool add milk or cream and serve with ice. This is improved if folded into the beaten white of an egg.

Malted Milk With Cream.
One tablespoonful of malted milk, one ounce of plain cream, water sufficient to fill the glass. Whipped cream and nutmeg, vanilla or cinnamon may be used if desired.

Orange Cream.
Put into a Mason jar the whites of two eggs, juice of one orange, juice of one-half lemon, two tablespoonfuls sugar and a little cracked ice. Shake tightly onto the jar and screw well for three minutes. Serve in sherbet glasses.

GOD LEADS THOSE WHO TRUST IN HIM

SO DECLARES REV. O. E. BRYAN IN SERMON AT CLAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH.

TEXT IS TAKEN FROM SAMUEL

"Hitherto Has the Lord Helped Us," Applied Not Only to Israelites, but to Present Day Christians.

God's help has been extended to those who love and serve Him in every generation, declared Rev. O. E. Bryan yesterday in his sermon at the Clay street Baptist church. As his text he took I Samuel 7-12, "Hitherto has the Lord helped us," he said in part:

"The Philistines are coming against Israel in battle array. The overwhelming odds seem to be against Israel at Mizpeh. Samuel prays and God sends a great thunderstorm upon the camps of the Philistines. While they are excited in this storm Israel rushes upon them and they are put to flight. Samuel takes a stone and sets it between Mizpeh and Bethel and calls the name of it Ebenezer, saying, 'Hitherto hath the Lord helped us.'

"In applying this text to our own age we may well say hitherto hath the Lord helped us. (1) For the Lord has helped us as individuals. Each child of God may say 'He has lifted me out of the mirey clay of sin. He has helped me when I was sinking down. He has been my helper when the world, the flesh and the devil have pressed me sore. Through His help I have won in each battle where He has been asked to intercede. He has helped me in my physical battles, my intellectual battles and my spiritual battles. He has been a present help in every time of trouble.'

"Thus far the Lord has helped us as families. When business reverses have come He has led us safely through them all. He has protected us through floods and storms. His grace has sustained us through trials, afflictions, sickness and death. The Lord's presence and help was manifested no greater in the family of Abraham than in your family and mine.

"Hitherto hath the Lord led us as a church. With small beginnings, persecutions, poverty, foes within and foes without, He has helped us. The evangelistic fires have burned. Numbers have flocked to the banner. Each year enlarged, strengthened and sustained by His helpful presence, we have moved on. As a grain of mustard seed, a little leaven, we have increased by the power of His might. The past is eloquent with the command, 'Go forward.' So I am with you, even unto the end of the ages. The gates of hell shall not prevail against you. Glorious bride the Lamb's wife: thus far has the Lord helped thee.

"Thus far the Lord helped us as a nation. The footprints of God are clearly seen on the battlefields of our country. Victory after victory has crowned the glorious republic of the United States. The Lord helped us to drive out the Indians. He helped us to break the bands of England. He helped us to whip the Mexicans. He helped us to free the colored slaves, Spaniards. The Lord has helped us to be a great missionary nation. To study American history the eye is dim that cannot see the Almighty Hand. 'Hitherto hath the Lord helped us.' Let us trust Him to fight our battles and at Heaven's gate let us erect a stone bearing the words, 'Hitherto hath the Lord helped us.'

Pope's Peace Move Creates Discussion

Rome, Sept. 5, via Paris, 6:10 p. m.—The Vatican is besieged with requests from all parts of the world for information regarding possible action by Pope Benedict in connection with the United States in favor of peace. The reply of the Vatican to these messages is that nothing of a positive nature exists and that the visit of Cardinal Gibbons to President Wilson must not be regarded as the first step in a new papal initiative.

This answer apparently does not satisfy inquirers who seem to think that the pope is designed to conceal real progress in the negotiations. Many have sought to obtain information from Cardinal Vannutelli, dean of the Sacred college, or to Cardinal Bisielli, who have many American friends, but all have received the same answer.

Cardinal Falconio, who is staying at his diocese at Velletri, an hour distant from Rome, frequently is questioned by the pontiff about the American situation, and is able to give accurate information because of his knowledge of life in the United States. Cardinal Bisielli, deputy papal secretary of state, who works daily with the pope, considers most significant and extraordinary the number of inquiries and expressions of rejoicing needed from all quarters as soon as announcement was made of the interview between President Wilson and Cardinal Gibbons, which was understood by the inquirers as the first step for peace.

The Corriere d'Italia, the semi-official Vatican organ, will announce officially tomorrow that there is no foundation for reports that Pope Benedict has many American friends, but all have received the same answer.

These reports will be repeated at fixed intervals until the day comes when at last they are true."

Decathlon at Tulane.
New Orleans, Sept. 5.—The decathlon, or all round championship of the Southern Association of the Amateur Athletic Union will be held at Tulane university stadium here Saturday, October 16, if that date does not interfere with the Tulane football schedule, according to an announcement today by Secretary Benedetto. The annual meeting of the association at which time officers will be elected, will be held here September 20.

Notice.
Monday, Sept. 6, 1915, Labor Day, being a legal holiday, the banks composing the Waco Clearing House association will be closed.

CHILD'S RELATION TO CHURCH DISCUSSED

REV. D. A. M'GUIRE PREACHES ON KINGDOM OF HEAVEN TO CLAY ST. METHODISTS.

Preaching on the subject, "The Child's Relation to the Church," Rev. D. A. McGuire, pastor of the Clay Street Methodist church, took as his text yesterday Mat. 19-13-14-15. "Then were there brought unto him little children, that he should put his hands on them and pray, and the disciples rebuked them. But Jesus said: 'Suffer the little children, and forbid them not to come unto me; for of such is the kingdom of heaven. And he laid his hand on them and departed thence.'"

But Jesus said: 'Suffer the little children, and forbid them not to come unto me; for of such is the kingdom of heaven. And he laid his hand on them and departed thence.'"

"Peter preached on the day of Pentecost this same gospel, for he said: 'For the promise is unto you and your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call unto him. And ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. Whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, shall be saved. A BRIGHT BOY BOOSTER.

On the occasion of the visit of the

him, especially in view of the fact that the interior of his head is even brighter than the exterior.

He is Brady Cole, son of R. R. Cole, prominent grocer and president of the Hearne Chamber of Commerce. From this youngster the Morning News man learned in a few minutes more about Hearne than he had ever known before and that without particular solicitation, for the young booster was proud of his town and took every opportunity to get in a word for it. He told about the population, schools, banks, compresses, oil mill, electric light plant, the Brazos Valley club,
and other things of interest which go to make up the town's resources, gave the distance from Hearne to the Brazos river, knew the location of the lock and dam that is to be located in that section soon, knew the reduction in freight rates that Hearne will obtain as the result of the navigation of the Brazos river and lots of other things which supposedly well-informed men of his town do not know, we venture. In other words, he is not only loyal to his home town, as all good citizens should be, but he knows how to present the strong points of his town in an attractive manner and never loses an opportunity to tell about them. And he knew something about Waco, too, and was immensely interested in the purpose of the trip made by the business men of this city down the Brazos valley.

And why shouldn't our boys be town boosters? Most of them are boosters by nature, but they are not by training. Our commercial organizations and other civic bodies might well afford to offer small cash prizes occasionally, or associate juvenile memberships in their organizations, for the best essays on why Waco is an attractive city in which to live, or the most complete list of the city's commercial, industrial, civic, educational and religious institutions. For while the boys will be good boosters as boys, the larger consideration is the fact that they will be much more valuable boosters when they have reached manhood as the result of this boyhood training than they would have been otherwise.

Boys are full of energy and enthusiasm. They want to be doing something. Why not turn their activities in the direction of those things that will accomplish something worth while for themselves and their city at the same time?

Now that Mission, Texas, is in the center of the border warfare, we have an idea Mr. Bryan is congratulating himself that he has sold his farm there. Fighting is not an inviting vacation diversion for the Peerless One.

At the dinner tendered him by his friend, John Stevens of Hill county, the other day Joe Bailey is reported to have said that while he would not be a candidate for the senate in 1916, he would run against Senator Sheppard in 1918, if the people of Texas should desire his services at that time.

THE MESSAGE OF LABOR DAY.

Throughout the country today postoffices, banks, mercantile establishments, factories and other places where organized labor is employed will be closed in honor of Labor Day.
Editors will pen praises to the men and women who toil, politicians and other orators will find in the day their theme for pretty perorations, and consciously and unconsciously the American people will pay a tribute to the genius of American industry.

It is quite proper that our industrial interests, which have been such a powerful factor in the development of the nation, should occupy at least one day on our national program. Labor Day is peculiarly an American institution for it was an American, P.
J. McGuire, secretary of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, and affiliated with the Knights of Labor, who first suggested on May 8, 1882, that one day out of the year should be set apart toward the commemoration of the accomplishments of the men and women who constitute the forces of organized labor.

But Labor Day is more than a holiday and a picnic—a day of rest for those who toil. That is the smallest factor in the observance of the day.
Its prime purpose, as we understand it, was to call attention to the interests and the needs of the laboring people; to concentrate the attention of those who make laws and outline political policies and shape public opinion through one channel and another upon these things so that out of an aroused public interest better wages, better living conditions and better provisions in general might be made for those who bear the brunt of the burden in the creation of our wealth.

More people than those who are properly termed laboring men and women are concerned in the accomplishment of the program which Labor Day has in mind. For adequate wages, reasonable hours of labor and decent working conditions for those who toil is of concern to more than the laborers themselves—they are of concern to the whole of society, for what affects a portion of society directly, either for better or for worse, affects the whole of society, and all of us should be conserving all the best interests of all the people. So on Labor Day, 1915, we extend our congratulations to organized labor upon the progress it has made, upon the stability it has given its cause, and upon the prospects for still better things ahead.

Not every man who gets a good send-off can come back, observes

Employment was provided for 395 persons during the month of August by the Dallas municipal employment bureau.

Dallas has loaned her sanitary engineer, Mr. Saville, to Galveston in order to facilitate the clean-up of that city following the recent storm.

Having decided to come to San Antonio next year and attempt to clean it up, Billy Sunday is not entitled to a Carnegie medal so much as to the title of the modern Hercules.

The first boll weevil has entered Georgia, the dispatches declare. A mob should be organized to lynch him before he has had an opportunity to send for his wife and begin the propagation of his kind.

Out of a total of 45,427 school boys of New York City examined before they were permitted to participate in athletic contests, only 391 showed any traces of heart failure. This is a remarkable showing, and if congested
New York can make such an exhibition, why should not the propaganda of better and sounder children proceed throughout the country?

Farm girls of Nueces county are to establish a stock company for the purpose of operating a first-class canning plant, the raw material to be furnished, in a large measure, by the girls directly from the farms on which they live. The company is being organized with a capital of $2,500 by Mrs. S. L.
Kennamar, county demonstrator in girls' canning club work, who will superintend the canning factory and see that the goods are properly put up. It is announced that the local demand for the products of the factory will be sufficient to consume the total output
at the beginning.

Judge Quentin D. Corley, county judge of Dallas county, says he has taught his automobile to swim. Now if the armless judge does not have to busy himself with swimming his car up Salt Creek, we hope he will succeed in teaching autos how to jump
from in front of interurbans, trains, and over bluffs, embankments and streams where the bridges cannot be seen clearly when on joy rides. Of course, Judge Corley does not need this latter information for himself, but it is surely needed by other residents of Dallas county, judged by the number of casualties that have happened in that county this year.

COMMUNITY CIVICS.

"Community civics helps the child to know the meaning of his community life, not merely a lot of facts about it," says a bulletin just issued by the United States bureau of education. This bulletin was prepared by four members of the committee on social studies of the National Education Association—Dr. J. Lynn Barnard,
School of Pedagogy, Philadelphia; F.
W. Carrier, principal of Wilmington (Mass.) high school; Arthur W. Dunn, specialist in civic education, United States bureau of education, and Clarence D. Kingsley of the Massachusetts board of education.

"The significance of the term, 'community civics,' does not lie in its geographical implications," says the bulletin, "but applies this point of view to the national community as well.
Emphasis is laid upon the local community because it is the one with which every child-citizen has most intimate relations, and for that reason it is easier for him to enter into actual co-operation with it."

The authors of the bulletin make clear that the term "citizenship" is used broadly. The "good citizen," they say, "is a person who habitually conducts himself with proper regard for the welfare of the community of which he is a member, and is active and intelligent in his co-operation with his fellow members to that end."

Community civics, according to the bulletin, should be taught in the elementary grades of the public schools and should be continued in a more comprehensive course in the first year of the high school. "Many pupils do not enter high school at all, and those who do should already have begun to acquire habits of civic thought and action. The greater maturity of the high school pupil makes possible the development of phases of the subject that are impracticable in the elementary school."

"Many courses in civics fail," the authors think, "because they fix attention upon the machinery of government rather than upon the elements of community welfare for which government exists. They familiarize the pupil with the manipulation of the social machinery without showing him the importance of the social ends for which this machinery exists. A lesson in community civics is not complete unless it leaves with the pupil a sense of his responsibility, and results in right action. To attain these ends is perhaps the most difficult and delicate task of the teacher."

"Much civic instruction," declares the bulletin, "has been ineffective because it has left the pupil to work out for himself the application of general principles. The translation of principles into conduct is more difficult than the comprehension of the principles themselves. While we urge that the citizen should engage in these activities as far as opportunity offers, it is necessary to cultivate a motive sufficiently strong to lead him actually to do so. This motive is to be found in the common interest, which includes his interest, at least until such time as an ideal altruism may lead to the placing of the interest of others and of the community above the interest of self."

Capt. E. A. McKenney, as soldier, public official, attorney and private citizen discharged well every trust that was committed to him and after having lived to the ripe old age of four score years and two, passed on to receive the reward that is laid up in the hereafter for the faithful.

Advices from Albany are to the effect that the constitutional convention of New York, in session there, has decided upon a salary of $20,000 for the Governor of the Empire state beginning January 1, 1917, the salary at present being $10,000. Twenty-thousand is a fancy salary and we recall some executives of that state recently whom we hardly believe were worth that much.

Mr. Bryan evidently enjoys running for office just for the fun and excitement which a campaign engenders.
In an authorized interview in St. Louis Saturday night he said: "I have stated as expressly and as strongly as I can that I do not expect to hold public office for the remainder of my life. I have added, however, that this must not be regarded as a pledge that I shall never run for office."

A scientist announces that first-born children are inferior mentally, morally and physically. Never thought of it before, but possibly this explains why there are so many childless homes—the parents have never discovered any means of having a family of children without some of them being the first one.

New York City has a new ordinance that permits men arrested for making improper remarks to the women on the street to be sent to the workhouse for ten days to six months. Now if our cities, including Waco, could just frame a measure that would eliminate the man who stands on the street and makes improper remarks about women and girls we would be making real progress.

COLOUITT ANNOUNCES
HIS 1916 PLATFORM

EX-GOVERNOR SETS FORTH PRIN-CIPLES ON WHICH HE OFFERS FOR UNITED STATES SENATE.

NEW PLAN FOR HOMELESS MAN

Candidate Would Establish a Cheap Loan System Through Mammoth Land Bank.

In formally announcing his candidacy
for the United States senate in 1916, ex-Governor O. B. Colquitt has issued the following address:

To the People of Texas:
I will be a candidate for the office of senator from Texas for the term beginning March the 4th, 1917, and present herewith my views on some of the public questions about which the people are most concerned at this time:

1. I am opposed to the proposed amendment to the United States Constitution on woman suffrage and prohibition. The regulation of the liquor traffic, and of the rights of suffrage are matters properly belonging to the police powers of the states and are not questions over which the national government should assume control. To give congress power to legislate on and control of these subjects would nullify the principles of local self-government, and be destructive of the rights of the states. The people of each of the forty-eight states of the union are capable of dealing with these questions of their people, and to deny to them the right to settle these questions for themselves would be an abasing destruction of one of the fundamental principles upon which the federal states are formed. The national compact agreed to the establishment of the union. The proposition would be a centralization of the powers of government at Washington and take it away from the people. The ultimate end of such a policy means the establishment of a strong centralized government and the abandonment of the principles upon which the states agreed to the organization of the federal government.

Amend Currency Laws.

2. Our banking and currency laws should be so amended as to afford relief to the people as well as to the banks.
In times of stringency and panic. This can be done by the enactment of a law making it the duty of the secretary of the treasury, upon proper showing, to deposit money belonging to the government in banks, to be advanced on cotton, wheat or other products, at low rates of interest to be prescribed by the treasury department. This course has been followed frequently to sustain prices in the stock market by depositing government money in New York banks. If the government can afford to use its funds to support the values of stocks of corporations, why should not the policy be used to support the values of cotton and wheat or other business interests? Further relief can be obtained for the people by amending the banking laws by creating a central reserve bank under the control of the national government and require national banks to keep at least half of their reserve with said central reserve bank. By this plan the reserve of banks could be kept active and be used by the government to relieve financial stringency in any part of the country without resorting to plans that would resort to sound business methods. These plans would simply make elastic the funds already in hand, but dormant and idle because of requirements of the law and would give practical relief in times of stringency and protect agricultural and all other producing and laboring classes from a fall in the value of their products, and of their labor.

Chance for Poor Man.

3. I earnestly favor the enactment of a law, by congress, establishing a system of rural credits whereby persons engaged in farming may obtain credit upon their products. With adequate warehouse systems this can be done, as already suggested, by needed amendments to our currency and banking laws. I also favor the passage of an act which shall set aside all money representing the purchase price for public lands, and the interest thereon, for the establishment of the Land Bank of the United States, or reserve the principle and interest from the sale of public lands, as a special fund to be re-loaned under proper safeguards, to citizens desiring to purchase a home of their own. Tenantry is on the increase.
Fifty-two per cent of the farmers in Texas are tenants; likewise a large percent of the laboring men in cities and towns. Statesmen should find a way to assist these frugal farmers and laborers who want only to acquire a home of their own. In the very beginning of our government, one of the difficulties ground for forming the union, arose over the disposition of the vacant lands claimed by some of the states. To settle this great Northwest territory was ceded by Virginia and other states to the federal government as common property of all the people. Since then the Louisiana purchase and the acquisition of other areas of land, has greatly extended our domain. These lands have been sold to homesteaders, or given away to railroads and for other public improvements. More than $169,000,000 have been paid to the government for lands.

The plan I suggest is to preserve this fund for the purpose of lending it to those who may desire to purchase the land they cultivate, and give to them twenty-five years or more, if necessary, to pay for it, and let them have the money out of the fund at 4 per cent interest. This will furnish the capital for the Land Bank, and time will increase its resources, until ultimately, and not far in the future, its means will be enough to enable every tenant in the United States to buy and pay for the roof that shelters himself and family. The plan is practical and not subject to objection on the ground that it violates fundamental principles.

Farmer and the Tariff.

4. All federal taxation, whether in the form of tariff on imports or otherwise, should be limited to the needs of a simple government, economically administered. The present tariff law which lets into the country raw materials free of duty and levies heavy duties on manufactured products, subjects our agricultural and pastoral classes to competition while it enables the rich manufacturer to exact their own prices for manufactured products, violates the principles of equality in taxation as well as the fundamental principle that tariff taxes should be levied and collected for the purposes of revenue only. To admit into this country the agricultural and pastoral products of other countries, free of tariff tax, and then impose a tariff tax upon the manufactured products, not only violates the principles of equality in taxation, but is obnoxious to the fundamental doctrine of equal rights to all and special privileges to none.

5. The right of each state to regulate freight rates between points within its own jurisdiction should not be questioned. The interstate commerce law should, therefore be amended so as to limit its authority to interstate commerce and to clearly prohibit that tribunal from encroachment upon the powers of reasonable commissions in regulating commerce passing between points in the state.

6. Adequate protection of the border along the Rio Grande to insure safety of life and property of citizens, is a duty which the federal government owes to Texas, and I will insist on this obligation being discharged if I become one of the representatives of this state in the senate. In addition, the federal government should reimburse Texas for the money she already has spent in defending the border.

Encourage Merchant Marine.

7. Our shipping laws should be amended so as to encourage the development of an American merchant marine, owned by our own people, sufficient to carry our commerce to all parts of the world, and not leave us dependent upon foreign ships, as has been the case since the beginning of the war in Europe, to our regret and great financial loss.

8. The necessity for a greatly increased standing army does not exist. But the United States should build a navy strong enough to protect our commerce on the high seas and our shores from attack by a foreign foe, and the landing of a hostile army. Because of her maritime power, we have permitted England to banish our commerce from the high seas, except such as she cared to use for her own defense. We have been told that our cotton shall not be delivered even to neutral nations that want to buy it, and our government submits to it.

9. The unfortunate war in Europe is a menace to our own peace and prosperity. It is costing millions of lives and millions in money. Our nation has declared its neutrality, but the nations at war have destroyed our commerce with other nations, practically, except in war materials, and thus have violated our rights as a neutral country. Believing as I do that the United States could not only protect her commerce and at the same time advance the cause of peace by peaceful methods, I shall not hesitate, if elected next year, and the war is still in progress, to vote for a measure which will prohibit the shipment of war material to any of the belligerent nations. This is a policy which each country may decide for itself without violating any of the rules of international law. Having our neutral rights violated as they are,

The Square Dealing
Store is the Safe Store

Every retailer who gives his customers what they ask for —honest, substantial, value-giving merchandise—has the public's confidence and will obtain and hold its patronage.

The square-dealing retailer recognizes the rights of customers to obtain the identical products asked for, and for that reason he never fosters the sale of "just as goods."

He realizes that well known advertised products which have, through merit, won public approval are the character of goods which add to his store's reputation.

He is unwilling to cheapen his store by offering substitutes. Neither will he suggest your buying a cheap imitation when you ask for a product of genuine merit.

The dealer you patronize is either a square dealer or the other kind. If he is the other kind, self protection demands that you change dealers.

Remember, the square dealing store is the safe store—the store that protects you from imitations and "just as goods."

and justifying them as they do on the ground of expediency, we should not continue to furnish the war materials to kill and maim the people of Europe. If they can't manufacture their own missiles of destruction they can ask for peace. By adopting this course, our government would be promoting the cause of peace which we profess to love.

Deepen Texas Rivers.

10. I have always been in favor of substantial internal improvements, especially where such public improvements result in general benefit to the public, either in protecting them from disaster or to give the people commodious and cheap facilities for the transportation of their commerce. The harbors on the Texas coast should be deepened and generally improved; our navigable rivers should be cleaned out and used for practical navigation, and adjacent lands reclaimed and protected from overflow. Buffalo Bayou to Houston and the Neches and Sabine rivers to Beaumont and Orange should be made navigable for the largest freight carrying steamers, without delay. If I am elected to the senate I will devote unceasing energy to securing results.

11. During recent years we have had a surplus of legislation, based upon impractical theories. The only noticeable result of these laws has been to disturb business conditions and shake public confidence in the ability of public policy. We should stop manufacturing laws upon unsound theories and return to the old-fashioned principles upon which the government was founded. With attention to amending the banking and currency laws as already outlined, so as to make them respond to the needs of the people and give credit to the masses on the products of their labor, and provide a way for the homeless man to acquire one, enough will have been accomplished to give the country a rest on legislation.

These questions will be discussed in more detail in the campaign which I shall make before the democratic primaries to be held on the 4th Saturday in July, 1916.
The public honors heretofore conferred upon me by the people of Texas are gratefully acknowledged. The duties of public place have been discharged conscientiously and honestly, and without fear of critics, and in the interest of the masses. I have faith and confidence in the people and shall present my views to them for approval, and if elected will serve them fearlessly as their representative.

FRIENDS OF PEACE
CRITICISE THE PRESSRAP GOVERNMENT, MUNITIONS MANUFACTURERS AND
NEWSPAPERS.Jingoism Called a Menace—People Too Willing to Let President Wilson Do It.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—The first session of the national convention of the Friends of Peace, which opened here today, was given over largely to the women delegates, as a sentimental acknowledgment of the peace movement, but a number of men speakers launched vigorous attacks on what they called "the jingo press" and manufacturers who are shipping munitions to the belligerents. These attacks were greeted by long and continued applause.

A ripple of applause greeted the reading of a bulletin announcing that the Allan river Hesperian had been torpedoed by a German submarine but immediately a storm of hisses drowned out the applause. The bulletin, read by Henry Weissman, of Chicago, chairman of the resolutions committee, contained the erroneous statement that 600 lives had been lost. Later another bulletin stating no lives had been lost and the delegates broke into applause that lasted several minutes.

Mr. Weissman after reading the bulletin said the action of the submarine confirmed an opinion of his that reports declaring Germany had acceded to the demands of the United States regarding submarine warfare had been published solely to keep people from attending the convention of the Friends of Peace and that the "jingo press" had loaned its efforts to the movement with that end in view.

Rev. D. C. Berkemeier of Mount Vernon, N. Y., charged that the influential papers of the United States were trying their best to incite the nation to war. "When the war is over and we get at the facts," he declared, "we will find a handful of unscrupulous men responsible for it all. And then we will curse Grey and Asquith and Poincaré and Delcassé into the abyss of hell."

Criticism of the press of the country ought to stop pouring oil on the almost universal conflagration and pour it on the troubled waters. Rev. P. Vollmer of Dayton, O., declared there was a sentiment in the country to "let President Wilson do it" whenever the conduct of our foreign negotiations was brought up.

"That's wrong and it is un-American," he said. "We must let our servants who handle the reins of our government for us know what we want. If we want peace we must keep a watch on them. The speaker said he feared sometimes that the administration was too much influenced by the 'jingo press' and that it wrongly believed to represent the people. He said if it were put to a vote no community in the country would declare war."

Rev. Vollmer brought his address to a close with the charge that there is an "unholy trinity" in the United States that is trying to rush the country into war. "It is composed of the money and war munitions trust, the jingo press in many instances controller by the munitions trust and that type of rowdy politicians that clamor for the avenging of the Lusitania and Arabic," he said.

Appalachicola Is Damaged by Storm

Appalachicola, Fla., Sept. 5.—As a result of Saturday's storm here, this city probably will be without telephone and electric light service for another week and has suffered property damage estimated at approximately $40,000. No lives were lost. The tide rose four feet, flooding warehouses on the water front. The tug Ocean Gem and several fishing and oyster boats were sunk, a number of houses inundated. The estimated velocity of the wind was 80 miles an hour. No reports have been received here from other points along the coast owing to wires being down.

The above was the first word from the Appalachicola section since Saturday's storm.

A GREAT DUTCH CARTOONIST.

Louis Raemaekers Gruesomely Portrays Horrors of War.

Every great crisis has produced a great cartoonist—one who has given voice to the soul thoughts of the people. Thus, in the present war has arisen a young man, hitherto unknown outside a limited circle, who has portrayed for us the meaning of the word catastrophe. He is the Dutch artist, Louis Raemaekers, of Amsterdam.

Like Daumier, he is the master of the grotesque. You feel, also, that his heart, like that of the master caricaturist of France, breaks under the sufferings of war's innocent victims. Almost uncanny are the impressions he leaves us—impressions of pallid faces, eyes dilated with horror, ashes and white walls, the silence and coldness of death. Throughout all these phantasmagoric pictures there is no ray of hope, no hint of a partly obscured sun. Death itself stalks through the pages of his album, drinking from a cup of blood.

Raemaekers is the portrayal of insanity, of famine, of despair. There is almost the touch of the madman in his work. It is like laughter in hell. The ghosts themselves might have stepped from the grave and swept the crayon in cold lines across his drawing board.—Cartoons Magazine.

two thousand and no more, he added, and insofar as General Trevino Commander at Monterrey is considered, he yesterday defeated the Villistas at Camole, near Monterrey, which proves that he is very far from the frontier.

It is quite probable that the Pan-American conference will meet this week. They now are awaiting General Carranza's reply to their appeal for a peace conference of Mexican leaders. Carranza's long delay in answering has given rise to some that his reply may leave the way open for further negotiations with his faction relative to peace.

Mexican Officer Wants Conference. San Antonio, Sept. 5.—The Carrancista commander at Matamoros, Mex., today made overtures to the American commander at Brownsville looking toward the cessation of the guerilla raids on American borders, ranches by Carranza soldiers and other Mexican bandits.

Report of the overtures came to southern headquarters by wireless tonight from Colonel Robert L. Bullard, who stated that he had received from the Mexican general, E. P. Nafarrate, through the Carranza headquarters at Matamoros, a suggestion that representatives of the two forces meet in the middle of the international bridge for a discussion of ways and means to put an end to the bandit activity along the lower border.

Colonel Bullard reported it had been definitely ascertained that one of the men killed in the fighting near Cavazos crossing Saturday afternoon was an officer of the Carranza army. It was reported tonight at southern headquarters that Colonel Bullard had no authority to hold a conference with any Mexican representatives and hence the conference would not be held unless specific orders are given for it. This was not done tonight.

Believed Soldiers Did Firing. San Antonio, Sept. 5.—Reports to southern department headquarters of the army strengthen the evidence that the firing on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande Saturday and today was done by military organizations. Whether identified with Carranza or Villa army or deserters from these organizations is not known. The Carranza troops, however, distinctly heard various battle calls during the day and far into the night from the Mexican forces that had been fighting. Many of the Mexicans engaged in the battle wore uniforms and all responded quickly to military commands given by men in charge of the Mexicans. Another significant incident is that during the fighting Saturday a message, presumed to have been sent by the Mexican military commander at Reynosa, asking that the American troops cease firing until the Mexicans had time to bury their dead, was received by officers in command of the United States troops.

Villa Suffers Losses. Vera Cruz, Sept. 5.—Saltillo, capital of the state of Coahuila, was occupied today by General Obregon. Followers of General Villa resisted the Carranza forces at Angostura, an outlying point, and were reported to have suffered heavy losses.

General Venustiano Carranza, replying to a message from General Obregon, expressed his appreciation of the capture of the Carranza forces at Angostura, and added to those under constitutional control.

Saltillo in Hands of Carranza. Laredo, Tex., Sept. 5.—Saltillo, in the Mexican state of Coahuila, has fallen into the hands of Carranza and the Villa troops round, according to official reports, received at Carranza headquarters in Nuevo Laredo today. Saltillo, the report said, fell yesterday. Carrancistas also have taken Imacole and Paredon, near Monterrey. It is said, and are concentrating for an attack on Torreon.

Fire on Cleveland Street. The five-room house at 816 Cleveland street, occupied by Abe Berlowitz and owned by Mrs. Curry, was badly damaged by fire which was discovered at 10 o'clock last night. The fire originated in the kitchen from some unknown cause. Damage to the house, which was insured, was estimated at $700 by Fire Marshal Joe Carlisle. Mr. Berlowitz also carried insurance on the furniture, some of which was saved.

Submarine F-2
Damaged in Crash

Honolulu, T. H., Sept. 5.—The United States steamer Supply, while docking here today crashed into a flotilla of submarines of the F type, cutting F-2 to the waterline and putting the after and the underwater boat out of commission. The impact jammed three submarines together, slightly denting the hull of the F-1.

EX-GOV. HODGES
MAKES TEMPERANCE
ADDRESS AT DALLAS

Dallas, Sept. 5.—Former Governor Geo. T. Hodges of Kansas arrived in Dallas Sunday afternoon and spoke tonight at the Exposition Park Presbyterian church. His subject was "A Message From Kansas." The address was along temperance lines and Governor Hodges told of the condition in Kansas as compared with conditions before statewide prohibition was adopted. Sunday morning he spoke at Denton. He will remain in Texas for several weeks and will deliver addresses in all the larger and important cities of the state. He is a strong and forceful speaker on the prohibition question. He is making the tour under the auspices of the Texas Anti-Saloon League.

Mr. Hodges has already delivered several addresses. He will be accompanied by Dr. A. J. Barton, superintendent of the Texas Anti-Saloon League; Rev. J. W. Kerwig and Rev. Atticus Webb. The campaign favoring statewide prohibition in Texas will be advanced to all sections of the state.

Among other things, Ex-Governor Hodges said, concerning Kansas: "You've doubtless heard Kansas is bankrupt, but last year we kept within our state some $34,000,000 that would have been spent for something imported from without the state, had our population spent as much for intoxicating liquor as a similar number is spending in some of the so-called wet states. It seems to me that the expression, 'Keep Texas as dry as Kansas,' is now on hand keeping in its own borders the money that under other circumstances in other states is being spent for intoxicating liquor. This is merely a hint on which the Texas financiers may profitably ruminate."

"They tell you Kansas is groaning under debt. That state now owes $158,000 and more than half the money is in the hands of the state. It is waiting its maturity. The state owes less than 10¢ per inhabitant. The state tax under which you hear the state is groaning amounts to less than 2.6¢ an acre on an average, not including improvements."

"The direct results of the saloon are paupers, imbeciles, insane and convicts. In Kansas only one person in 3,400 is feeble-minded. It has one insane out of every 570 and one man in the penitentiary out of 2,250 and some of these are there for selling whiskey."

"Kansas has 2 per cent illiteracy, a death rate of 10 per 1,000 and a prison population of 740, of whom 40 per cent are non-residents. In the last year our bank deposits have increased $130,000,000."

"Twenty-eight counties did not have a jail prisoner during 1914 and fifty-three counties do not have a jail prisoner today. Forty-eight counties did not send a person to the penitentiary last year, seventy-eight counties did not have an insane patient last year, twelve counties have not called a jury to try a criminal case in years, twenty counties do not have a prisoner in the penitentiary, eighteen counties have no poor farms, and thirty-two counties have no use for such farms because they did not have a single indigent last year."

"Those are some of the things that are the matter with Kansas. They are some of the things we wish other people to understand. They are the things for which we wish other people to strive and for which all good citizens should labor. I am in Texas for the present month to help the campaign along to the extent of my ability."

Ex-Governor Hodges speaks Monday night at Bonham.

Marlin Play Park
Association Gets
Ready to Resume

Marlin, Sept. 5.—The Play Park association of Marlin has re-organized for the year with the election of the following officers: President, Mrs. J. C. Fountain; vice presidents, Mrs. W. E. Hodges, Mrs. Zenas Bartlett, Mrs. E. O. Bowden, Mrs. T. W. Foster and Mrs. Jeffery Pringle; secretary, Miss Mae Hutchings; assistant secretary, Miss Lillian Glass; and treasurer, Mrs. D. K. Emerson. Tuesday evening will be featured at the park with a band concert given by the Marlin home talent band.

Large Marlin Congregations. Marlin, Sept. 5.—The Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist pulpits were all filled by their respective pastors today at morning and evening services for the first time in about two months, as all are back from holding meetings and enjoying vacation trips.

The usual Sunday night union services were discontinued. Rev. C. G. Howard preaching at the Baptist church, Rev. H. M. Whaling in the Methodist church and Rev. W. R. Hall on the Presbyterian lawn.

JOHN BARRYMORE AT THE QUEEN TODAY AND TOMORROW, IN
"THE INCORRIGIBLE DUKANE"Britain's Effective Fleet
Waiting for the Germans

London, Sept. 4, 8:15 p. m.—Delayed in Transportation.—For the first time the veil of secrecy over the British naval operations has been lifted. During the past week a correspondent visited the grand fleet and the great naval bases. At one naval base he saw dry docks capable of docking the large dreadnoughts which had been built since the war began.

Maps were shown the correspondent marking points where German submarines had been sighted and on which the results of attacks were classified under "captured," "supposed sunk" and "sunk." When bubblers are observed rising for a long time at the same spot in smooth water it is taken for granted that a submarine career has been ended.

When an officer was asked "how do you get them?" his answer was "sighting by ramming, sometimes by gunfire, sometimes by torpedoes and other ways we will not tell of." All the officers aboard the battleships and armored cruisers are envious of those engaged in submarine hunting, which are regarded as great sport. The professional opinion was expressed that the reason the Germans are declared to be ready to forego submarine attacks on liners is the want of submarines and the personnel to carry on their campaign.

The admiral commanding an important naval base told the correspondent that England has 2,300 trawlers, mine sweepers and other auxiliary vessels on the regular service on duty in the work of blockading from the British channel to Iceland and in keeping the North Sea clear and that their reservist crews had been most zealous in their important part in overcoming the kind of warfare which Germany wages.

Keep Up Target Practice. As the torpedo boat destroyer on which the correspondent was a passenger, after a cruise at sea and following the coast, turned the headland into the harbor where the grand fleet lay at anchor, he saw a target being towed in the customary manner for some of the cruisers. "We keep at it all the time," an officer explained.

The practice of the cruisers finished they took the place in fleet formation among the immense field of gray shapes at anchor in precise order, which as the torpedo boat destroyed nearer became one line of dreadnoughts.

In the first melting into the sea even the Queen Elizabeth, back from the Dardanelles, looked small for her tonnage and gun power unless compared with the Inflexible, the flagship of the Grand fleet, which carried many thousands of passengers.

In their places in the battle cruiser squadron, which is known in the navy as the "cat squadron," were the Lion and the Tiger, which sank the German armored cruiser Bluecher in the North Sea battle.

"This seems a sufficient denial of the German report that the Tiger is at the bottom of the sea," said an officer.

Looking strange among the homogeneous types of the ten gun ships which belonged to the regular British navy was a Turkish twelve-inch gun dreadnought taken over at the outset of the war.

As the torpedo boat destroyer approached the flagship of the command, in chief an officer pointed out Vice Admiral Sir John Jellicoe as one of the two officers promenading the quarter deck carrying a telescope under his arm. From the quarter deck he can keep his eye on all the gray monsters which form the fighting part of his command, while others of his post offices are abroad on different errands.

Jellicoe Receives Guests. Quick of movement and of speech, tanned by the year of exposure consequent on constant sea duty and with only a broad band of gold lace differentiating him from the other officers, Vice Admiral Jellicoe received his guests at the gangway. He is never without that telescope under his arm when he is on deck and officers say there is nothing which the young officers on watch see that he does not see.

Vice Admiral Jellicoe escorted his guests through the ship showing them the men at drill. He was most interested in calling attention to the special machine practice of the gun spot-belief here, that the German promise to America not to sink any more passenger steamers without warning, were brought about by the realization that the submarine warfare among the merchantmen had proved a failure. He again intimates that many submarines have been accounted for and adds that British mercantile tonnage is now greater than before the war despite the damage done by the submarines.

Norwegian Bark Sunk. London, Sept. 5.—The Norwegian bark Glint has been sunk by a crew of fourteen were landed safely.

The Glint was a vessel of 840 tons gross and was built in 1875. It was owned at Arendal, Norway. It was last reported as having arrived at Manchester, England, July 6.

Danish Steamer Sunk.

London, Sept. 5.—Lloyds announces that the Danish steamer Frode has been sunk. Captain Clemmensen and eighteen members of the crew of the vessel were saved.

The Frode was a vessel of 2,050 tons.

HIPPODROME.

News That Is News.

A famous general was reckoning a few days ago that the front consists of some two thousand miles in Europe alone without reckoning that rather indefinite line which separates the Turks from the British troops in Egypt and from the Russians in the Caucasus.

Pathe's way of reckoning the front is quite different, as shown in Pathe News here every Monday and Tuesday, and a new Pathe News here every Wednesday and Thursday. In the Pathe News the front is wherever something happens. Last week something happened in Egypt, and therefore Pathe was in Egypt. In the same pyramids that looked down on Napoleon's army some hundred years ago, looked down upon visitors to the Hippodrome theatre. All over the world wherever something happens of importance, Pathe makes pictures of it.

Pathe has a camera man stationed, never more than one hundred miles apart, and they circle the globe. No matter where it happens, it is shown in Pathe pictures every week.

A drama entitled "Where the Trail Ends" is offered with the Pathe News at the Hippodrome today. An educational, "On the Banks of the Cruise," is another offering.

Wait a minute! Do you remember the when you didn't like to see educational pictures for a long time, noticed the change that has come over the motion picture fan in the last few months? And have you noticed that permanent place on programs in the big houses? These things have come to pass. You like educational pictures, so does your neighbor and your business associate. It is the one kind of picture that never grows tiresome. Not so very long ago managers fought shy of anything that smacked of education. They feared the displeasure of their audiences. They knew the dislike of their patrons for such pictures, but times have changed. The intelligence of the motion picture audience is growing constantly and the educational film today is not considered as a mere filler-in, but is ranked as one of the most important pictures on the program.

Such is "On the Banks of the Cruise," a colored Pathe offering here today.

QUEEN.

"The Incurrible Dukane."

Those who love pure, unadulterated comedy of the highest order will have a treat today and tomorrow at the Queen. The offering will be John Barrymore in "The Incurrible Dukane."

The lovers of John Barrymore on the screen—and their number is legion and rapidly multiplying with every successive release of the Famous Players Film company, starring this inimitable comedian—will see that irrepressible disciple of fun at his best in the current Famous Players feature on the Paramount Program, "The Incurrible Dukane," a photo-adaptation of the humorous story by George C. Shedd. This mirth-provoking five-part production, "The Incurrible Dukane," is a straightforward story, told in a hearty, boyish style, with all the meriment of youth crowded into the five parts required to unfold the plot.

At the scene of the dam and tells the burly superintendent that he is Dukane, Jr., and has come to manage the job. The superintendent politely (or as much so as a burly superintendent can be) tells him to go to work with the pick and shovel at $2.00 per day. The surprises and adventures that ensue from this point, the development of the romance between himself, in the guise of a stone-cutter, and the daughter of the ranch owner who is fighting his father's company from building on his land, and his ultimate triumph in exposing the treacherous engineer who is cheating his father by substituting some cheap product for concrete, make a lively and very enjoyable photoplay.

"The Incurrible Dukane," produced with all the care for which the Famous Players Film company is famed throughout the world, with realistic exterior and elaborate interior settings is such a photoplay as will interest people of all tastes and preferences. Superbly directed by James Durkin, and carefully constructed so that all the interesting elements of the story are logically developed and presented, the subject should not only amuse but delight the patrons of the Queen.

NICKEL TODAY.

Viola Dana, in "The Slavery Student." That beautiful, charming "little" Viola Dana, who created the biggest sensation last winter when she appeared here personally in "The Poor Little Rich Girl," so impressive that it drew editors in leading daily papers, will be the great attraction in a three-part Edison feature, "The Slavery Student," at the Nickel for one day only, and that's today. Innocent girlhood and precious school days with a heart-intense plot of intense action, will bring all mothers and daughters to see, please and impress them, send all away happy with the very pleasantest of memories for Viola Dana, beautiful child star.

Financial Brilliance. When Leonard Wood calls the statement that we can raise an army of 1,000,000 between sunrise and sunset an insane statement, is he aware that the man who makes that statement can get $500 an evening for making strings of such statements to Chautauque audiences in Iowa and Oklahoma?—Syracuse Post-Standard.

BOHEMIANS MEET AND PLAN FOR DAY

EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO MAKE OCCASION ONE OF MOST NOTA-BLE AT COTTON PALACE.

WILL ASK FOR DATE TONIGHT

Committee Appointed to Take Charge of All Details Necessary to Be Worked Out.

Plans for making "Bohemian Day" one of the biggest occasions of the 1915 Cotton Palace were discussed yesterday at a meeting of McLennan county Bohemians in the rooms of the Young Men's Business League. Officers to have general charge were elected as follows: Michod Pazdral, West, president; J. A. Farek, Elk, vice president; Victor Bunata, Waco, secretary; Robert Cervena, West, assistant secretary; F. H. Woytek, Waco, treasurer. There were about fifty in attendance at the meeting.

The next meeting will be held at West, the third Sunday in this month. Aside from the Germans, there are probably more Bohemians in this portion of Texas than any other nationality. While the Bohemians issue papers in their native tongue, like the Germans, they are Americans first, loyal to all enterprises of their adopted land and especially the Cotton Palace.

A committee consisting of Method Pazdral, F. H. Woytek, Frank Ketton, Victor Bunata and Joseph Janak was appointed to confer with the Cotton Palace directors tonight, in regard to fixing a date for "Bohemian Day."

Other committees were named as follows:

Program committee—Dr. J. A. Pazdral, West; Leo Macel, P. J. Chudey, Waco; J. R. Polasek, West; J. A. Farek, Elk; Joseph Dusek, Waco; Joseph Janak, West.

Finance committee—Joseph Dusek, Waco; Roman Parma, Waco; J. F. Urbanosky, West.

Publicity committee—August Morris, Dr. J. Pazdral, Robert Cervena, all of West.

Exhibition committee—Mrs. W. C. Peter, Mrs. Frank Chudey, Mrs. F. W. Woytek, Mrs. L. Sulak, Mrs. Tietz, Mrs. F. Ketton, Waco.

Decorations—Emil Zahumensky, Waco; Frank Ketton, Waco; John Faltesek, Waco.

Reception—Roman Konvicka, Wm. Milberger, Ed. Schiller, Ed. Kresel, R. F. Celman, John Janys, Chas. Vana, Roman Parma and Frank Gaida, Waco.

Smoke inside the Hafner-Anderson jewelry store, 602 Austin avenue, attracted the attention of Frank Blair, merchants' policeman, about 4 o'clock yesterday morning and the chemical wagon was summoned. Nobody had a key to the building and the firemen stood outside while Mr. Blair went to Mr. Anderson's residence after one.

Before he returned, however, flames were seen and the door was forced. A short circuit had started a box of waste to smoldering, but nothing else had caught, so practically all the damage was to the door. If the firemen had acted promptly the story would probably have been different as there was danger of a serious conflagration.

Cotton Palace Board Will Meet Tonight

The Cotton Palace directors will meet in an interesting and busy session tonight in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce and several plans for the 1915 Cotton Palace improvement and betterment will be considered and acted upon. The absence of President Asher Sanger, Vice President John F. Wright will preside.

A report from the program committee will be heard and it is probable that it will submit a tentative program for the coming "Unique Exposition." Dates for many of the most important events have already been determined and the completed program is awaited with interest throughout the state.

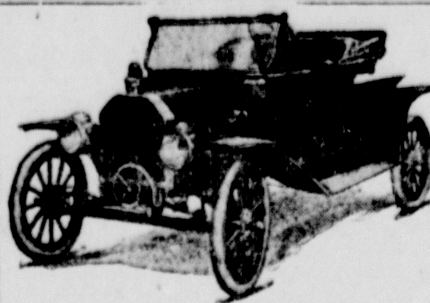

Bids will be opened this evening for the erection of the big grandstand to be built in Cotton Palace park and the contract may be let in the meeting this evening.

Work of getting the grounds in shape for the event and the race track and athletic field are progressing rapidly and in the next few weeks everything will be in readiness. It is hoped for the opening day. Word has already been received from Governor Ferguson that he will be open to the season's festivities. It is probable that he will be attended by the major messrs. Richard Jurney and Geo. S. McGhee, live here.

DEATHS

R. B. Harris of Abbott Dies.
R. B. Harris, 68 years old, retired merchant of Abbott, died at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at a local sanitarium. The body was sent to Abbott last night by L. C. Puckett, undertaker, and funeral will take place there this afternoon. The deceased is survived by his wife and the following children: Miss Mamie H. and Anderson Harris and Mrs. John Allen of Abbott, Henry Harris of Whitesboro and Mrs. Zeb Beard of Hillsboro, and two brothers, M. Harris of Abbott, and Henry Harris of Archer City.

Funeral of E. A. McKenney.
Funeral services for the late E. A. McKenney were held at 3:30 yesterday afternoon from the family residence, 2608 Homan street, Provident Heights, with interment at Oakwood. Rev. J. M. Dawson, assisted by Rev. John G. Kendra, officiated at the house and the Masons had charge at the grave. Many of Judge McKenney's old time friends showed the respect and esteem in which they held him by attending the services.

WHY IS WACO FIRM?

Because Its Citizens Have Learned the Truth.

After reading this generous and encouraging report from Mr. McCurry, those who have the misfortune to suffer, as he did, will naturally long to get similar relief. But to get the same good as Mr. McCurry had, you should get the same remedy. There are, of course, other kidney pills, but there are no other kidney pills the same as Doan's. That is why Waco people demand the genuine.

O. Y. McCurry, commission merchant, Seventh St. and Ross Ave., Waco, says: "For several years I have been afflicted with attacks of kidney complaint, which brought me across the small of my back. The kidney secretions became unnatural. I felt all used up by these attacks. A few doses of Doan's kidney pills, procured at Morrison's Old Corner Drug Store, have always given me immediate relief."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. McCurry had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

WARFIELD PLEASED WITH SPIRIT SHOWN

GENERAL MANAGER SEABOARD & GULF SAYS NOW IS TIME TO BOOST NAVIGATION.

LINE TO BE RUN TO NAVASOTA

Schedule of Tariffs Being Prepared at Present Time—Boats to Waco Intention of Company.

"You people are showing the right spirit. The only way the outside world can tell that the people along the Brazos valley want river navigation is for the people to show that they are interested. And right now is the time this interest should be shown. The Brazos looks like a navigable stream to me, and it will to others if you only keep up the good work you have commenced."

The above words are from E. G. Warfield of New York, vice president and general manager of the Seaboard and Gulf Steamship company, who spent yesterday in Waco. Mr. Warfield's company has been operating ships between New York and Freeport at the mouth of the Brazos for five years. His way with the Waco party which boosted Brazos navigation Friday and Saturday for the last portion of the trip and expressed great pleasure at the interest shown. Schedules of all tariffs are already being prepared by the Seaboard and Gulf for a line of boats to run from Freeport up the river to Navasota. This line will be inaugurated just as soon as it is demonstrated that there will be enough traffic to make it pay.

The Seaboard and Gulf proposes later on to run boats all the way up the river to Waco. It is a logical step to take, said Mr. Warfield, for the traffic down the Brazos would go to Freeport, where the company's ships are already coming regularly. As soon as a little more work is done on the stream the docks and wharfage facilities provided at Waco and other points, Mr. Warfield said his company would take up the matter of running a line of boats up here.

"In the meantime," he said, "the people ought to use the river all they can, even if it is by no more than row boats. Getting the habit helps a lot to impress the people. If they are seeing that the Brazos is being put to some use it will make its impression on them."

Mr. Warfield and Homer D. Wade of Freeport, were guests of Col. W. W. Selmon, chairman of the Brazos navigation board for an auto trip over the city yesterday afternoon, winding up at the Country Club. Mr. Warfield left last night for San Antonio, where he will spend a few days before returning to New York. Mr. Wade also leaving for Freeport.

Regular Meeting of Local Typos

Waco Typographical Union No. 155 met in regular monthly session at the Labor Temple yesterday afternoon with President W. C. Lowry in the chair. Reports from the different newspapers and job printing offices of the city show a somewhat improved condition of the printing trade, and the members are sure of a return to normal with the opening of fall business.

An interesting report was read by Louis H. Hicks, who represented No. 155 in the recent convention of the International Typographical Union at Los Angeles. A feature of Mr. Hicks' report which was particularly gratifying to local printers was the excellent state of affairs at the Union Printers' Home at Colorado Springs, Colo. Mr. Hicks says that a majority of the inmates of the Home are suffering with tuberculosis, and that of all the cases being treated only one is regarded as incurable by the physicians in charge. The International Typographical Union has for the past several years carried on a vigorous fight against the "white plague," and conditions obtaining in the Home at Colorado Springs speak eloquently for the success of the work done.

Good Crowd Attends Y. M. C. A. Meeting at Crystal Theatre

A good sized crowd of men attended the Y. M. C. A. meeting at the Crystal theatre yesterday afternoon and heard two interesting talks, as well as some beautiful singing by Mrs. T. M. Bishop. The speakers were Crate Dalton of Dalton & Co., and C. J. Clanton, manager of the candy department of the Rotan Grocery company.

PERSONAL MENTION.

R. F. Kauffman of Fort Worth is in Waco on business.

Mrs. J. D. Davis and son of Hamlin are Waco visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack J. Lewis of Fort Worth are at the Riggins.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Barnes and Pitt Barnes, Jr., of Hico are spending a few days in Waco.

Ike Ashburn, director of publicity for A. and M. college, spent yesterday in Waco, the guest of R. J. Windrow, county engineer.

Homer D. Wade of Freeport left for home last night after having taken the trip over the H. & T. C. with the Brazos navigation board.

E. G. Warfield of New York, vice president and general manager of the Seaboard and Gulf Steamship company, left last night for San Antonio, after spending Sunday in the city.

Harrington Sontag, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Sontag, is slowly recuperating from an attack of typhoid fever, though he is not yet out of danger.
